how we interpret
our reality pg. 86-87

5th Meeting - Chpt. 6: Becoming a Warrior

DQ1

What are some ways we can become more dangerous as men?

↳ "be outside", connecting w/ ^{the} natural world → rely on it, understand it, and deal w/ it; survival

↳ being consistant, formulate a schedule to get better every day

↳ being physically fit/healthy

↳ less complaining → embracing the sucks. willing to do what has to be done to take care of business

↳ not growing complacent in learning/reading - pursuing excellence intellectually, spiritually, and philosophically

↳ putting yourself in uncomfortable situations and being comfortable in bad spots

Do you think that the difficult times we are confronted w/ are really designed to prepare us for trials to come?

↳ stop asking "why me" → Δ your perspective in order to appreciate the growth it is forcing → can't let your attitude ruin it for you

↳ can't let yourself go through the motions - have to adjust your attitude to be able to see it for what it is

↳ "anybody can get through anything" → have to accept that's where you are at → accepting responsibility over your situation

DQ3

What are some things you have/earn that give you a sense of success/satisfaction?

↳ happiness/money/respect/friendship* → relationships

↳ clash of clans

↳ doing well at work

→ have to recognize where to focus our time/energy

↳ some more mental things → other things that are maybe less monetarily valuable but hold deeper worth/meaning

→ leadership role,
where we can enact change

Q4 What are we doing to demonstrate our will in our kingdom?

- values, treating people the same regardless of skill level, respecting + motivating the people around you (team)
- "rugby kingdom", good/bad impact, learning experience as young men to lead/develop a team → beyond even the team or the game
- doing things like the men's group → help enable us outside the group to take the things we discuss out into our sphere of influence (introduce new attitudes/info/perspectives)
- Mr. LeHay quote; treat the people around you well → have a positive influence → even when you are dead your impact lives on; legacy
- being able to recognize when we are negatively impacting our kingdom/people around us, taking responsibility, and changing our output

Prayer Requests: Chris's job hunt/decision making w/ right job to pick, Chan's licensing exam - wisdom + guidance, Kenny's grandparents' health, health + safety for VMI rugby, overall wisdom + peace + proper decision making
